Purpose of this Policy

Education 1st is committed to protecting the rights and freedoms of data subjects and safely and securely processing their data in accordance with all of our legal obligations.

We hold personal data about our employees, prospective employees, clients, service users and other individuals for a variety of business purposes.

This policy sets out how we protect personal data and ensure that our prospective employees understand the rules governing their use of the personal data both during and after the recruitment process.

Relevant Legislation:

This Privacy Notice has been prepared in accordance with the Data Protection Act 2018 (DPA), the UK General Data Protection Regulation (UK GDPR), the Data (Use and Access) Act 2025 (DUAA) and other related legislation.

This Privacy Notice explains how Education 1st collects, uses, stores and protects personal data in accordance with the above regulations. Education 1st is the Data Controller for the personal data it processes. We collect and process your personal information as part of the recruitment process in relation to the role you are applying for.

The Senior Management involved in the recruitment process have responsibility for ensuring that applicants' personal information is held and processed in the correct way.

What is personal information?

Personal information is any information that relates to you and can be used directly or indirectly to identify you, such as a name, an identification number, location data, an online identifier or to one or more factors specific to the physical, physiological, genetic, mental, economic, cultural, or social identity of a natural living person (UK GDPR article 4).

Special categories of personal data means information about an individual's racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs, trade union membership, health, sex life or sexual orientation and biometric/genetic data (UK GDPR article 9).

What categories of information are processed?

The personal data we hold regarding you can include, but is not limited to, information such as:

- Your name and address.
- Email address and telephone number.
- Date of birth.
- Equal opportunities monitoring information.
- Your nationality and entitlement to work in the UK.
- National insurance number.

- Information about your current salary and benefits.
- Qualifications and skills.
- Work experience and employment history.
- References.
- Medical Information.
- Information about your criminal record.
- Disability status to enable us to make any reasonable adjustments throughout the recruitment process.

Why do we collect and use your information?

We collect personal data only for specified, explicit and legitimate purposes, whether by automated means, such as collection, recording, storage, retrieval, use, disclosure, dissemination, erasure, or destruction (GDPR article 4).

- We process personal data lawfully, only where it is adequate, relevant, and limited to what is necessary for the purposes of processing.
- We keep accurate personal data, only for the period necessary for processing, and take all reasonable steps to ensure that inaccurate personal data is rectified or deleted without delay.
- We adopt appropriate measures to make sure that personal data is secure, and protected against unauthorised or unlawful processing, accidental loss, destruction, or damage.
- We do this to ensure a candidate is suitable for the role and to make sure reasonable adjustments can be made for those applicants who have a disability.
- Processing of personal data ensures that a fair recruitment process has taken place.

We will not process personal data of applicants for reasons other than the recruitment and selection process. Where we process special categories of personal data or criminal records data to perform obligations, this is done under the employment exemption (GDPR Article 9).

In some cases, the organisation will need to process data to ensure that it is complying with its legal obligations. For example, we must check an applicant's entitlement to work in the UK.

Legal Basis for Using Personal Data:
Under the UK General Data Protection Regulation (UK GDPR), the legal basis/bases we rely on for processing your personal information are:

1. "Legitimate Interests"

- Under Article 6(1)(f):
    - receiving and reviewing application forms
    - shortlisting
    - arranging interviews
    - contacting referees
    - keeping records of the process

2. "Legal Obligation"

- Under Article 6(1)(c):
    - right to work checks

    - safeguarding checks (DBS checks)
    - recording equal opportunities monitoring (where required)

3. "Contract"
If an applicant is successful, processing necessary to issue an offer and prepare employment paperwork can rely on:

- Under Article 6(1)(b):
    - processing necessary to take steps prior to entering into a contract.

4. Special Category Data
If we collect sensitive information (special category data) (e.g. health data, ethnicity, disability information), we process that data:

- Under Article 9(2)(g) substantial public interest:
- Under the Data Protection Act 2018, Schedule 1, Part 2:
- Under Article 6:
    - legitimate interests or legal obligation, and
- Under Article 9:
    - employment and safeguarding obligations.
    - explicit consent (for example, for equality monitoring where optional).
    - processing is necessary to ensure the safety and welfare of students and to meet statutory safeguarding duties.

5. "Public Task"
To carry out our function as an educational organisation:

- Under Article 6(1)(e):
    - Processing is necessary for the performance of a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of official authority
    - To provide education
    - To safeguard children
    - To operate safely and effectively
- Processing job applicant data under Public Task forms part of how we delivers support and education to students.

6. "Consent"
To carry out our function as an educational organisation:

- Under Article 6(1)(a):
    - We may ask for consent for optional activities such as the use of employee photographs

7. "Vital Interest"
This lawful basis is relied on in situations where processing is essential to protecting someone's life, health or safety.

- Under Article 6(1)(d):
    - Sharing emergency contact or medical information with paramedics or healthcare professionals in a medical emergency
    - Providing essential information to emergency services during an accident or safeguarding incident
    - Contacting next of kin in urgent medical situations
- Under Article 9(2)(c):
    - Where special category data (such as health information) is involved

- processing necessary to protect the vital interests of an individual who is physically or legally incapable of giving consent.

Data relating to prospective employees is essential for the organisation's operational use. Whilst most of the information you provide us is mandatory, some of it is requested on a voluntary basis. To comply with the UK GDPR, we will inform you at the point of collection whether you are required to provide certain information to us or if you have a choice.

We process information provided in your application in order to assess your suitability for the role.

Who has access to your personal data?

Your personal data may be shared internally with other members of staff involved in the recruitment process for them to perform their roles. Throughout the recruitment process we maintain strict confidentiality regarding your information and only retain the personal information of unsuccessful applicants as per our retention schedule.

How do we protect applicants' personal data?

Our servers and storage systems are based in the EU or the European Economic Area (EEA), and we have ensured that appropriate safeguards are in place to protect your personal data.

We take the security of your personal data very seriously. Internal policies and controls are in place to try to ensure that data is not lost, accidentally destroyed, misused, or disclosed, and is not accessed except by our employees in the performance of their duties.

Where we engage third parties to process personal data on our behalf, they do so based on written instructions, are under a duty of confidentiality and are obliged to implement appropriate technical and organisational measures to ensure the security of data. For example, we ensure that we use encrypted devices, passwords, virus protection and have appropriate firewalls.

Who do we share your information with?

The personal data you provide as part of the recruitment process will be used only for the purpose of assessing your application and carrying out our recruitment procedures.

Your information will be shared internally only with staff involved in the recruitment and selection process, such as the recruiting manager, interview panel members and HR administrators.

We may also share relevant information with third parties where necessary for recruitment purposes, for example to obtain references or to carry out pre-employment checks (such as DBS, identity or right-to-work checks) if you are offered a position.

Legal or safeguarding disclosures

In very limited circumstances, we may need to share information with external agencies where required by law or where necessary for safeguarding purposes, for example with the Local Authority Designated Officer (LADO), the Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS), the police, or other external agencies. Such disclosures would only occur where there is a lawful basis to do so.

Retention of applicant data

Personal data relating to unsuccessful applicants will be retained for six months after the end of the recruitment process and will then be securely deleted unless you have given consent for your details to be kept on file for future vacancies.

What rights do you have in relation to your information?

You have the following rights in relation to your personal data: -

- The right of access to the personal data and supplementary information. This right is to enable you to be aware of and verify the lawfulness of the personal data we are processing.
- The right to rectification. This right allows you to have personal data rectified if it is inaccurate or incomplete.
- The right to erasure. This is also known as the 'right to be forgotten'. This is not an absolute right and applies in specific circumstances.
- The right to restrict processing. This right applies in circumstances where, for example, the data subject contests the accuracy of the data or challenges the public interest or legitimate interest basis.
- The right to data portability. This allows individuals to obtain and reuse their personal data for their own purposes.
- The right to object. Individuals have the right to object to:
    - Processing based on legitimate interests or the performance of a task in the public interest/exercise of official authority.
    - Direct marketing.
    - Processing for scientific/historical research and statistics.
- Rights in relation to automated decision making and profiling

If you have a concern about the way we are collecting or using your personal data, we ask that you raise your concern with us in the first instance by contacting the Education 1st Data Protection Officer. Alternatively, you can contact the Information Commissioner's Office at https://ico.org.uk.

Withdrawal of consent:

Where we are processing your data with your consent, you have the right to withdraw that consent if you change your mind or are unhappy with our use of your personal data. Please let us know by contacting the Education 1st Data Protection Officer.
